1967 Plymouth Barracuda

By John Ambrosi, 27 December 2010

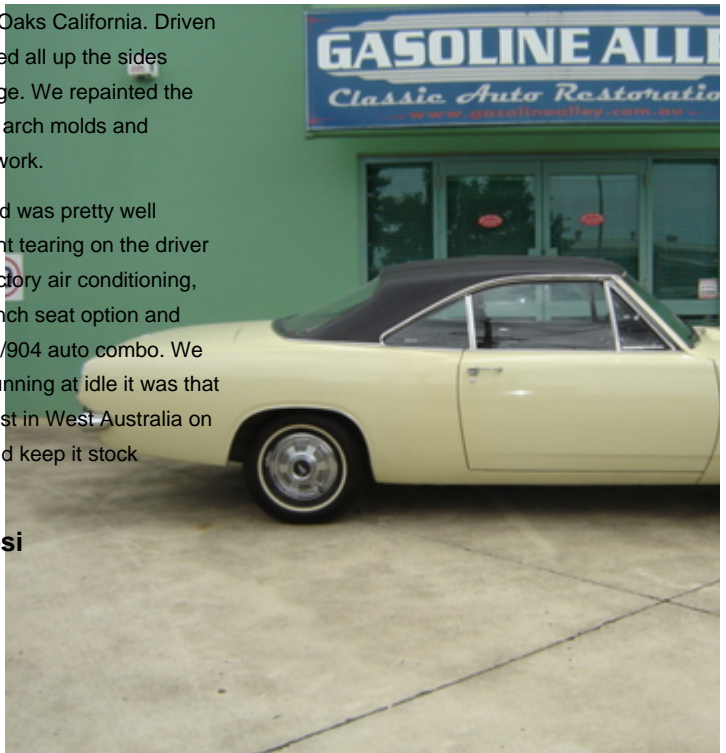

Sourced out of Sherman Oaks California. Driven by an elderly gent. Scraped all up the sides getting in and out of garage. We repainted the sides, repaired the wheel arch molds and machine buffed the bodywork.

The interior trim while tired was pretty well unmarked apart from slight tearing on the driver seat. This car featured factory air conditioning, power steering. It had bench seat option and column shift auto. 273 V8/904 auto combo. We had to check it was still running at idle it was that quiet. Sold to an enthusiast in West Australia on the condition that he would keep it stock standard.
